

Prakash Gopi

General Manager – Middle East Operations | G&E Industrial Supplies

Prakash is a Mechanical Engineer and senior business leader with over 20 years of executive experience driving strategic growth, operational excellence, and commercial expansion across the Oil & Gas, Construction, and Automobile sectors.

As General Manager – Middle East Operations at G&E Industrial Supplies, he leads the region's strategic direction, business development, operational execution, and supply chain optimization. His mandate extends beyond operational oversight to building a scalable regional growth platform aligned with long-term corporate objectives.

Prakash combines engineering rigor with commercial foresight, enabling him to bridge technical depth with executive decision-making. He has successfully led cross-functional teams, structured expansion strategies, strengthened OEM and global supplier partnerships, and implemented disciplined sourcing models that enhance margins while maintaining compliance, safety, and quality standards.

He has extensive experience in the energy sector, working directly with leading operators and global OEMs to deliver technically compliant, performance-driven solutions across complex industrial environments. With international exposure across Europe, Africa, and the United States, he brings a global perspective on regulatory frameworks, performance benchmarks, and market dynamics, enabling him to align Middle East projects with global best practices while managing high-value, regulated supply frameworks.

With a strong emphasis on governance, compliance, and risk management, he ensures structured, responsible growth without compromising regulatory standards or performance benchmarks. His hands-on involvement across the full project lifecycle provides both operational credibility and strategic oversight.

At G&E Industrial Supplies, Prakash is focused on expanding the company's regional footprint, enhancing strategic alliances, and delivering technically robust, commercially optimized solutions that support clients' evolving energy and infrastructure sector requirements—positioning G&E as a trusted sourcing partner and contractor in the Middle East.